

Lee Hsien Loong

Chairman

Lee Hsien Loong has been Prime Minister of Singapore since 2004. Prior to that, he was Deputy Prime Minister with responsibilities for economic and civil service matters. He has also held ministerial appointments in Trade and Industry, Defence and Finance, and chaired the Monetary Authority of Singapore from 1998 to 2004. Before entering politics, he was a Brigadier-General in the Singapore Armed Forces. He studied at Cambridge University and the Harvard Kennedy School, Harvard University.